SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

1. The Polish wharf in Gdynia is "literally jammed" with cargo for China. The warehouses at the wharf are filled to capacity and that merchandise which cannot be stored is kept in the open.
2. The cargoes  are mostly composed of iron pipes of various sizes, threaded at the ends, and cases containing thin non-rusting metal sheets commonly referred to as "white metal sheets".
3. At the free customs wharf there is also a great deal of cargo destined for China. This cargo, composed mostly of machinery parts, comes from the USSR and is given priority in loading on Polish ships.
